

MEMBER CONFIDENTIALITY

The undersigned Global Licensed Aircraft Dealers Association (GLADA) member ("Member Organization" as further defined herein) acknowledges the policy and responsibility of membership as outlined herein. GLADA is an Association of likeminded members in the business aviation industry for the benefit of the members, individually and/or as a group. Member Organization(s) may from time to time disclose private or confidential information to other Member Organization(s). Any information deemed by the disclosing party to be private or confidential and expressly so designed in writing, and which is not otherwise available in the public domain (hereinafter "Confidential Information"), is to be held in the strictest confidence by the receiving party and shall not be disclosed to any third party without the express written permission of the disclosing party.

There is NO requirement to disclose any Confidential Information. This is a benefit of GLADA membership – the ability to freely discuss our business activities in a collaborative manner. Any violation of this policy may be met with immediate termination and expulsion from GLADA, along with further appropriate measures by the GLADA board of directors.

The confidentiality of shared information applies to each member including its affiliates, representatives, employees, directors, advisors, etc. (together, "Member Organization(s)"). Each Member Organization agrees that it shall not make use of, for its benefit or for the benefit of others, any Confidential Information received from other Member Organization(s), outside the context which such information was disclosed. Furthermore, it is each member's responsibility to ensure that its Member Organization protects any Confidential Information received from other Member Organizations.
